CHR&GJ
center for human rights and global justice
nyu school of law

AMERICANS ON HOLD

PROFILING, CITIZENSHIP, AND THE "WAR ON TERROR"

The Center for Human Rights & Global Justice at NYU School of Law invites you to the launch of its new report on the human rights implications of citizenship delays.

Presenters include:

Prof. Smita Narula	Faculty Director, Center for Human Rights & Global Justice
Jayne Huckerby	Research Director, Center for Human Rights & Global Justice
Mohammad Razvi	Executive Director, Council of Peoples Organization
Cyrus D. Mehta	Principal Attorney, Cyrus D. Mehta & Associates, P.L.L.C.
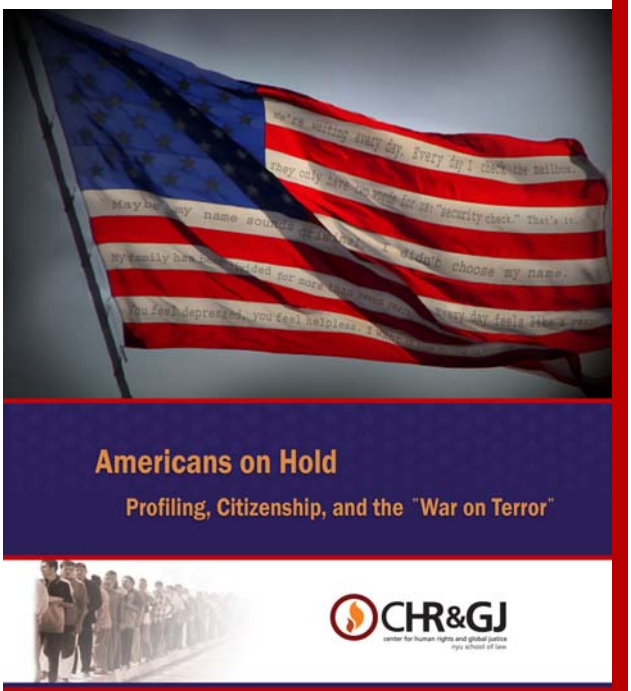
Lema Bashir	Legal Advisor, Arab-American Anti-Discrimination Committee



TUESDAY, APRIL 24, 2007

6:00-7:30 p.m.

NYU School of Law

Rm 214 Furman Hall, 245 Sullivan Street

Open to the public, I.D. required for entry

Since September 11, 2001 counter-terrorism efforts have increasingly informed immigration policy and have institutionalized discrimination against immigrants perceived to be Muslim on the basis of their name or national origin. A substantial expansion of name-check procedures has illegally delayed the processing of thousands of citizenship applications from Muslim, South Asian, Middle Eastern, and Arab men. This counter-terrorism dragnet is breaking up families, engendering fear and insecurity, and disenfranchising entire communities.

Americans on Hold and related materials are available at www.chrgj.org