

The International Center for Transitional Justice and the Center for Human Rights and Global Justice at NYU School of Law invite you to attend

The Sixth Annual Emilio Mignone Lecture on Transitional Justice

"Justice and Development: Nexus at the Heart of Arab Spring"

A discussion between Helen Clark (UNDP) and Hossam Bahgat
(Egyptian Initiative for Personal Rights)
Introduced and moderated by Philip Alston (CHRGJ and NYU School of Law)

November 14th 2011, 6:00pm-7:30pm
Tishman Auditorium, Vanderbilt Hall, 40 Washington Square South

Please RSVP to Audrey Watne at watnea@exchange.law.nyu.edu.
Valid ID required for admission.

This annual public lecture invites leading international figures to explore cutting edge issues in transitional justice. The focus of this year's lecture will be on the nexus between transitional justice and development, followed by a conversation about how these relate to the recent and ongoing transitions in the Middle East and North Africa.

