Transitional Justice in the Western Balkans:
Is a Regional Truth Commission Possible?

In the wake of war crimes trials conducted in the ICTY and national jurisdictions, the countries of the Western Balkans are taking significant steps toward judicial accountability, and their political integration in Europe, including the possible establishment of a regional truth commission. Please join CHRGJ and the ICTJ as they bring together a group of experts and activists from across the region to discuss the implications of creating a truth commission for the entire region.

Discussion will be moderated by Paul Van Zyl, Transitional Justice Program Director, CHRGJ

For details about the speakers, please see www.chrgj.org

ICTJ | 10 years

CHR&GJ
center for human rights and global justice
nyu school of law

Furman Hall, Room 210 (245 Sullivan St.)
November 15, 2011, 12:00-1:30 PM

Space is limited. Please RSVP to Audrey Watne at watnea@exchange.law.nyu.edu to be guaranteed access to the event.