

Professor Philip Alston and Business & Human Rights Resource Centre invite you to a discussion with Professor David Kinley as he launches his new book:

“Civilising Globalisation: Human Rights and the Global Economy”

This promises to be a lively back-and-forth between two human rights leaders. Andrew Goledzinowski, Ambassador and Deputy Permanent Representative of Australia to the UN, will make introductory remarks. The event will be followed by audience questions & answers, a book-signing and reception.

David Kinley holds the inaugural chair in Human Rights Law at Sydney University. In addition to his academic posts, David has worked for 15 years as an adviser to governments, corporations, NGOs, the UN and the World Bank on international and domestic human rights law in Australia, Burma, China, Indonesia, Iraq, Laos, Nepal, South Africa, Thailand and Vietnam.

Pascal Lamy, Director General of the WTO, said of "Civilising Globalisation": “Professor Kinley offers a thoughtful assessment of two indispensable elements in our society today: global economic progress and human rights.” The book explores how human rights standards can guide international trade, aid and business.

Philip Alston is John Norton Pomeroy Professor of Law at NYU School of Law, and Chair of the Center for Human Rights and Global Justice. He is currently Special Adviser to the UN High Commissioner for Human Rights on the Millennium Development Goals, and UN Special Rapporteur on extrajudicial, summary or arbitrary executions. From 1991 to 1998 Philip was Chair of the UN Committee on Economic, Social & Cultural Rights.

When: 6pm, Wednesday 30 September

Main event from 6 – 7.15pm. Followed by book-signing and a reception with light refreshments.

Where: NYU School of Law, Vanderbilt Hall, Room 210, 40 Washington Square South, New York, NY 10003.

RSVP: to Annabel Short, Head of Program, Business & Human Rights Resource Centre

short@business-humanrights.org / tel: 212 564 9160

Co-hosted by:

Center for Human Rights and Global Justice: established to bring together and expand the rich array of teaching, research, clinical, internship, and publishing activities undertaken within New York University Law School on issues of international human rights law

Business & Human Rights Resource Centre: an international non-profit organization, tracking the human rights impacts (positive & negative) of over 4500 companies worldwide – sign up for free Weekly Updates here