Engendering Counter-Terrorism and National Security

In October 2009, the U.N. Special Rapporteur on the promotion and protection of human rights while countering terrorism will present his groundbreaking report on gender and counter-terrorism measures to the U.N. General Assembly. The report addresses the long-ignored impacts of counter-terrorism on women and LGBTI individuals, condemning patterns such as government bartering of these individuals' rights to appease terrorists and the use of anti-terrorism laws to criminalize gender equality advocates. Please join CHRGJ as we host a discussion with a distinguished group of panelists working on these issues.

- Karima Bennoune, Professor of Law and Arthur L. Dickson Scholar, Rutgers School of Law - Newark
- Jayne Huckerby, Adjunct Assistant Professor of Clinical Law and Research Director, CHRGJ, NYU School of Law
- Martin Scheinin, UN Special Rapporteur on the promotion and protection of human rights while countering terrorism

Moderated by Fareda Banda, Professor, NYU School of Law

CHR&GJ
center for human rights and global justice
nyu school of law

Vanderbilt Hall, Room 218
(40 Washington Square South)
October 27, 2009, 6.00-8.00 PM

Space is limited. Please RSVP to Kelly Ryan at ryank@exchange.law.nyu.edu to be guaranteed entrance