

Human Rights Law and International Humanitarian Law in the Context of Child Soldier Prevention: Conflict or Convergence?

The Center for Human Rights and Global Justice invites you to attend a panel discussion featuring:

Gus Waschefort, Lecturer in Public International Law, University of Pretoria; Legal Advisor to the UN Special Rapporteur on extrajudicial, summary or arbitrary executions

Introduction by: Sarah Knuckey, Director of the Project on Extrajudicial Executions, CHR&GJ, NYU School of Law

The lecture will address the question of whether human rights law is humanizing humanitarian law, and the extent of their convergence, fusion or opposition, in the context of an examination of the prohibition of the use of child soldiers.

Furman Hall, Room 310 (245 Sullivan St.)
February 10, 2011, 12.00-1.00 PM

Space is limited. Please RSVP to Kelly Ryan at ryank@exchange.law.nyu.edu to be guaranteed entrance to the event. Lunch will be provided.
