INTERNATIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS STUDENT FELLOWSHIP PROGRAM
2007/2008

1. INTRODUCTION

The Center for Human Rights and Global Justice (CHRGJ) is pleased to announce the 2007-2008 Student Fellowships in International Law and Human Rights. The Program is coordinated by CHRGJ with the Institute for International Law and Justice (IILJ), with support from the Public Interest Law Center (PILC).

The International Law and Human Rights Student Fellowship Program is designed to provide students with the opportunity to gain education in the theory and practice of international law and human rights law.

Persons who are current full-time first-year JD, second-year JD, LL.M and JSD students at NYU School of Law are eligible to apply. It is anticipated that approximately 20-25 student fellows will be selected.

This year, as part of fellowship activities, students may apply for summer internship placements with the following organizations:

- Adalah, Legal Center for Arab Minority Rights in Israel, Shafa'amr, Israel
- Centre on Housing Rights and Evictions, Geneva, Switzerland
- European Roma Rights Centre, Budapest Hungary
- Institute of Democracy and Human Rights, Lima, Peru
- Inter-American Commission on Human Rights, Washington, DC
- International Center for Transitional Justice, Bogotá, Colombia
- International Center for Transitional Justice, New York
- International Criminal Tribunal for Rwanda, Arusha, Tanzania
- International Criminal Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia, The Hague, The Netherlands
- International Women's Rights Action Watch-Asia Pacific, Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia
- Legal Resources Centre, Durban, South Africa
- Legal Resources Centre, Constitutional Litigation Unit, Johannesburg, South Africa
- Liberia Truth and Reconciliation Commission, Monrovia, Liberia
- People's Watch, Tamil Nadu, India
- Timap for Justice, Sierra Leone
- UN High Commissioner for Human Rights, Colombo, Sri Lanka
- UN High Commissioner for Refugees, Geneva, Switzerland
- UN High Commissioner for Refugees, Bangkok, Thailand
- UN International Law Commission, Geneva, Switzerland

Students may apply for up to three (3) different placement sites. However, a separate Statement of Interest must be prepared for each site applied for. For more information, see 'Application' below.

Financial support from NYU School of Law for summer internships at the organizations noted above is only available to students selected at International Law and Human Rights Student Fellows.

2. PLACEMENTS

A brief introduction to each placement organization follows. Interested students should seek additional information themselves from the websites noted, as well as from internship reports about many of the placement organizations that are available on PILC's website or in its office located at Furman Hall, 4th Floor. In addition, the contact information for past Fellows will be provided.

Adalah, Legal Center for Arab Minority Rights in Israel, Shafa'amr, Israel (1 student)

Adalah is an independent human rights organization, as well as a non-profit, non-governmental, and non-partisan legal center. Established in November 1996, it serves Arab citizens of Israel, numbering over one million people or close to 20% of the population. Adalah ("Justice" in Arabic) works to protect human rights in general, and the rights of the Arab minority in particular. Its main goals are to achieve equal individual and collective rights for the Arab minority in Israel in different fields including land rights; civil and political rights; cultural, social, and economic rights; religious rights; women's rights; and prisoners' rights. Among its activities are litigation in Israeli courts; advocacy for legislation that will insure equal individual and collective rights for the Arab minority; and legal consultation to individuals, NGOs and Arab institutions. Its work draws on Israeli law, comparative constitutional law and international human rights law. For more information, see <http://www.adalah.org/eng/index.php>

Centre on Housing Rights and Evictions (COHRE), Geneva, Switzerland (1 student)

COHRE is an international NGO working on housing and eviction issues. Its overall objective is to promote and protect the housing rights of everyone, everywhere. To achieve this, COHRE has developed a varied work program, guided by international human rights law. Its work involves housing rights training and education; research and publications; monitoring, documenting and preventing forced evictions; undertaking fact-finding missions; participation and advocacy within the United Nations and regional human rights bodies; and providing legal advocacy and advice to communities and organizations involved in housing rights campaigns. For more information, see <http://www.cohre.org/>.

European Roma Rights Centre (ERRC), Budapest, Hungary (1 student)

ERRC is an international public interest law organization engaging in a range of activities aimed at combating anti-Romani racism and human rights abuse of Roma. ERRC's approach involves, in particular, strategic litigation, international advocacy, research and policy development, and human rights training of Romani activists. Since its establishment in 1996, the ERRC has endeavored to give Roma the tools necessary to combat discrimination and win equal access to government, education, employment, health care, housing and public services. The ERRC works to combat prejudice and discrimination against Roma, and to promote genuine equality of treatment and equality of respect. For more information, see <http://www.errc.org/>.

Institute of Democracy and Human Rights, Catholic University of Peru (Instituto de Democracia y Derechos Humanos de la Pontificia Universidad Católica del Perú, IDEHPUCP), Lima, Peru (1 student)

The aim of IDEHPUCP is to contribute to the strengthening of democracy and the respect for human rights in Peru through scholarship, basic and applied research, providing spaces for dialogue and interaction between civil society and the government, and the promotion of the values that uphold human rights and the rule of law. Part of its work grew out of the work of the Peru Truth and Reconciliation Commission that investigated human rights abuses between 1980 and 2000 and issued a final report in August 2003. The report found that insurgent violence and counterinsurgency tactics caused an estimated 69,000 deaths and disappearances, mostly in indigenous communities. IDEHPUCP seeks to follow-up on Commission recommendations including a comprehensive reparations plan and criminal prosecutions. For more information, see <http://www.pucp.edu.pe/idehpucp/>

Inter-American Commission on Human Rights (IACHR), Washington, D.C. (1 student)

The IACHR is one of two bodies in the inter-American system for the promotion and protection of human rights. (The other is the Inter-American Court of Human Rights located in San José, Costa Rica.) The IACHR is an autonomous organ of the Organization of American States; its mandate is found in the OAS Charter and the American Convention on Human Rights. The IACHR has seven members who act independently, without representing any particular country. Its principal function is to promote the observance and the defense of human rights. In carrying out its mandate, the Commission inter alia: receives, analyzes and investigates individual petitions which allege human rights violations; observes the general human rights situation in the member States and publishes reports as it considers appropriate; carries out on-site visits to countries to engage in more in-depth analysis of the general situation and/or to investigate a specific situation; requests States to adopt specific "precautionary measures" to avoid serious and irreparable harm to human rights in urgent cases; requests that the Court order "provisional measures" in urgent cases; submits cases to the Inter-American Court and appears before the Court in the litigation of cases. For more information, see <http://www.cidh.oas.org>.

International Center for Transitional Justice (ICTJ), Bogotá, Colombia (1 student) and New York (2 students)

The ICTJ assists countries pursuing accountability for past mass atrocity or human rights abuse. It works in societies emerging from repressive rule or armed conflict, as well as in established democracies where historical injustices or systemic abuse remain unresolved. The ICTJ assists in the development of integrated, comprehensive, and localized approaches to transitional justice comprising five key elements: prosecuting perpetrators, documenting and acknowledging violations through non-judicial means such as truth commissions, reforming abusive institutions, providing reparations to victims, and facilitating reconciliation processes. The Center is committed to building local capacity and generally strengthening the emerging field of transitional justice, and works closely with organizations and experts around the world to do so. For more information, see <http://www.ictj.org/en/index.html>

International Criminal Tribunal for Rwanda (ICTR), Arusha, Tanzania (1 student)

The ICTR was established by the UN in 1994 to prosecute persons responsible for Rwandan genocide and other serious violations of international humanitarian law committed in the territory of Rwanda between 1 January 1994 and 31 December 1994. During that period, at least 800,000 people were killed in 100 days. The court's most recent estimate for the completion of its work is the end of 2008. Interning at the ICTR offers a unique opportunity for students to take part in criminal prosecutions, involving the application of international humanitarian and criminal law, in cases relating to the Rwandan genocide. Fellows will take part in the ICTR's established internship program and will be placed in either judge's chambers or the Prosecutor's Office. Note: This placement is for 12 weeks. For more information, see <http://www.ictr.org>

International Criminal Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia (ICTY), The Hague, The Netherlands (1 student)

The ICTY was established by the UN Security Council in 1993 in the face of serious violations of international humanitarian law committed in the territory of the former Yugoslavia since 1991. The Tribunal's authority is to prosecute and try four clusters of offences: grave breaches of the 1949 Geneva Conventions; violations of the laws or customs of war; genocide; and crimes against humanity. The court consists of three branches: the judges' Chambers, the Office of the Prosecutor, and the Registry. Note: This placement is for 12 weeks. For more information, see <http://www.un.org/icty/index.html>

International Women's Rights Action Watch (IWRAP) – Asia Pacific, Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia (1 student)

IWRAP Asia Pacific contributes to the progressive interpretation, universalization, implementation and realization of women's human rights through the lens of CEDAW and other international human rights treaties. It facilitates a process through which the CEDAW Convention can be used as a tool for applying international human rights standards at the national level and in a wide range of contexts (e.g. political participation, armed conflict, rights in marriage, violence against women, trafficking reproductive rights, employment, etc.). The experiences gained have contributed to the development of knowledge and skills, and created a better understanding of the various dimensions of equality, non-discrimination, State obligation, human rights principles (e.g., universality and indivisibility), and a rights-based approach to development. For more information, see <http://www.iwraw-ap.org/>

Legal Resources Centre (LRC), Durban (1 student) and Johannesburg (Constitutional Litigation Unit), South Africa (1 student)

LRC is an independent, client-based, non-profit public interest law center which uses law as an instrument of justice. It works for the development of a fully democratic society based on the principle of substantive equality, by providing legal services for the vulnerable and marginalized, including the poor, homeless, and landless people and communities of South Africa who suffer discrimination by reason of race, class, gender, disability or by reason of social, economic, and historical circumstances. One Student Fellow will work with LRC's Constitutional Litigation Unit in Johannesburg and a second in LRC's Durban office. The LRC recognizes that with South Africa's Constitution still in its infancy, the human rights precedents being set now will make an important contribution to the future of human rights in South Africa and will have beneficial effects in the longer term throughout the Southern African region. The LRC's constitutional rights work seeks to contribute towards an expanded body of human rights and constitutional jurisprudence and focuses particularly on constitutional issues which have an impact on poverty and inequality. For more information, see <http://www.lrc.org.za>

Liberia Truth and Reconciliation Commission, Monrovia, Liberia (1 student)

The Liberia TRC was created in 2005 to, inter alia, investigate gross human rights violations and violations of international humanitarian law as well as abuses that occurred primarily during the period January 1979 to October 14, 2003; determine whether these were isolated incidents or part of a systematic pattern; and determine those responsible for the commission of the violations and abuses. In addition, the TRC is to provide a forum that will address issues of impunity and an opportunity for both victims and perpetrators of human rights violations to share their experiences in order to facilitate reconciliation. For more information, see <http://www.trcofliberia.org/>

People's Watch, Tamil Nadu, India (1 student)

People's Watch-Tamil Nadu is a non-governmental human rights organization which has been actively engaged in the protection and promotion of human rights in the state of Tamil Nadu and other parts of the country since 1995. Its mission is to empower marginalized sections of society to realize their rights through collective action. Its objectives are to hold the state accountable for violations of human rights and to promote a human rights culture in all elements of society. People's Watch has several programmatic divisions, including human rights monitoring, Dalit human rights, women's rights, rehabilitation of torture victims, and human rights education. For more information, see <http://www.pwtn.org>

Timap for Justice, Sierra Leone (1 student)

Timap for Justice is a pioneering effort to provide basic justice services in Sierra Leone. Because of a shortage of lawyers in the country, Timap's frontline is made up of community-based paralegals rather than lawyers. It presently employs 25 paralegals who work in 13 paralegal offices in the Northern and Southern provinces as well as in the capital Freetown. Timap has developed a creative, flexible model to advance justice, one which combines education, mediation, negotiation, organizing, and advocacy. Interns will evaluate the paralegals' application of necessary skills, conduct training sessions on common law concepts such as contracts, torts and criminal law, and contribute a considerable portion of their time to devising and executing strategies to address community-level issues. Interns are usually stationed in rural Sierra Leone and rarely deal with litigation, statutes, courts, or legal research and writing. While interns work closely with paralegals, direct supervision of the intern's work is limited; thus, individual initiative and self-direction are important assets. For more information, see <http://www.timapforjustice.org>.

UN High Commissioner for Human Rights, Colombo, Sri Lanka (1 student)

Since 2004, an OHCHR senior human rights adviser has been in place in Sri Lanka to provide support in building the human rights capacity of government institutions, civil society and the United Nations itself, particularly in the context of peace process. Together with other UN agencies, the Adviser explores ways of addressing human rights issues within the context of the peace process. Among the Adviser's activities are human rights training; initiating human rights awareness and empowerment programs; building the capacity of the national human rights commission and supporting civil society initiatives; providing technical assistance on the implementation of treaty body comments; and advising UN and local agencies on issues of child recruitment and the protection of internally displaced persons. Note: This placement is for 12 weeks. For more information, see <http://www.ohchr.org/english/countries/lk/>

UN High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR), Geneva, Switzerland (1 student) and Bangkok, Thailand (1 student)

UNHCR was established in 1950 by the UN General Assembly. It is mandated to lead and co-ordinate international action to protect refugees and resolve refugee problems worldwide. Its primary purpose is to safeguard the rights and well-being of refugees. It strives to ensure that everyone can exercise the right to seek asylum and find safe refuge in another State, with the option to return home voluntarily, integrate locally or to resettle in a third country. Today, UNHCR is one of the world's principal humanitarian agencies, its staff of more than 6,200 personnel helping nearly 32.9 million people in 111 countries. Placements are anticipated at two UNHCR offices: the Geneva headquarters and the Bangkok regional office. Note: These placements are for 12 weeks. For more information, see <http://www.unhcr.ch>.

UN International Law Commission (ILC), Geneva, Switzerland (5-7 students)

The International Law Commission is the legal codification arm of the United Nations. It meets every summer in Geneva to consider proposals for treaties, declarations of principles and other codifications or elaborations in norms previously only the subject of customary international law. Examples of the issues debated by the Commission in the past include the establishment of a permanent international criminal court and the formulation of the law on state responsibility. Current topics include reservations to treaties, responsibility of international organizations, shared natural resources, effects of armed conflicts on treaties, obligation to extradite or prosecute (aut dedere aut judicare), expulsion of aliens, immunity of State officials from foreign criminal jurisdiction and protection of persons in the event of disasters.

Members of the Commission are prominent experts in public international law and are elected in their individual capacities. Each student is assigned to work with a particular Commission member, not as a UN intern. This internship is cerebral and scholarly, not action-packed -- students undertake work assigned by Commission members, attend ILC meetings, conduct research, and write major papers with a view toward eventual publication. The Commission session normally begins in late April, so students travel to Geneva as soon as possible after exams in mid-May, and return in mid-August. It is expected that in 2008 the Commission will meet from May 5 to June 6 and from July 7 to August 8. For the membership and work of the Commission, see its most recent annual report at <http://www.un.org/law/ilc>.

3. TERMS AND CONDITIONS

Requirements

Requirements of students selected as Student Fellows extend over the 2007-2008 academic year and into the following Fall Semester. Selected students shall be entitled to the status of "Student Fellow" and will receive a fellowship stipend contingent only upon the fulfillment of all obligations listed below:

- Seminars: In Spring 2008, Student Fellows must attend international law seminars that are relevant to their internship placement.
- Fieldwork: During Summer 2008, Student Fellows will conduct at least 10 weeks of fieldwork at their placement site. Note that where required by the placement institution, this period may be longer, in some cases (noted above) 12 weeks. These time periods are not negotiable. Given the cost and other law school requirements and activities, this longer period may present financial and other challenges for some students. To the extent a placement organization requires the submission of a site-specific internship application, Student Fellows, after selection, shall complete and provide such application to CHRJ in an expeditious fashion. Note that no internship will be final until the Fellow is approved by relevant placement site supervisors.
- Research Paper: Student Fellows must undertake a supervised research paper on an international law or human rights issue to be agreed upon in advance with academic supervisors at NYU, in accordance with the following terms:
  - For all LLM Fellows and for JD Fellows with internship placements at the International Law Commission: prepare a satisfactory research paper due on or before October 17, 2008. The paper cannot be used for course credit.
  - For JD Fellows, other than those with placements at the International Law Commission: Option 1: prepare a satisfactory research paper due on or before October 17, 2008 (not eligible for course credit); or Option 2: elect to develop the fellowship paper into a full-scale research paper in the framework either of Directed Research eligible for 2 credits or in the framework of a seminar which is of direct relevance to the topic and where the seminar instructor approves the proposal. In either Option 2 alternative, the developed research paper must be completed by the end of the Fall Semester 2008. At the time of the submission of the application, eligible students should indicate on the application cover sheet their preliminary intent to choose either Option 1 or 2.

The balance of the fellowship stipend due in Fall 2008 will be automatically forfeited if the Student Fellow has not meet the relevant requirements related to the research paper and has not submitted an internship report to PILC (described below).

- Internship Report: At the conclusion of their fieldwork, in addition to the research paper, Student Fellows must submit to PILC a report meeting its requirements that typically include detail about the internship placement organization and the Fellow's internship experience.
- PILC requirements for JD Fellows: Funding for JD Fellows is provided through PILC's Public Interest Summer Funding Program. Student Fellows who are JDs must therefore fulfill all requirements of the Summer Funding Program as articulated by PILC.

Financial Support

Student Fellows will receive a stipend of $4,500 (1Ls) or $6,500 (2Ls, LLMS and JSDs). Stipends are awarded on a needs-blind basis. In late April 2008, $3,000 of the stipend will be distributed. The balance of the stipend will be disbursed in Fall 2008 after the Student Fellow has a) successfully completed his or her fieldwork; b) submitted the required internship report to PILC and c) the NYU academic supervisor has certified that he or she has completed the relevant requirements applicable to the research paper. Students who do not meet in a timely fashion applicable requirements breach the terms of the Fellowship, and forfeit the balance of the stipend.

Please note that expenses related to some placements, including airfare, housing and inoculations, may exceed the amount provided by the stipend. In addition, if you are not a U.S. citizen or permanent resident, there may be tax consequences which result in a reduced scholarship amount, depending on your country's tax treaty with the United States.

STUDENTS WHO ARE AWARDED AN INTERNATIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS STUDENT FELLOWSHIP ARE REQUIRED TO ACCEPT IT. YOU MUST ACCEPT THE PLACEMENT TO WHICH YOU ARE ASSIGNED. NO EXCEPTIONS WILL BE MADE.

4. APPLICATION

In order to be considered for the Fellowship Program, students must submit six (6) copies of an application package. Each application package should include:

A. Completed cover sheet (first page of this application)

B. Résumé

C. Unofficial transcripts

- Please include copies of your undergraduate and graduate transcripts. Official transcripts are not required. If the student's educational institution requires that transcripts be sent to someone other than the student, please have them sent or faxed (1-212-995-4600) to the attention of Tish Armstrong, Center for Human Rights and Global Justice, at the address below and note in the fellowship application that the transcript is being sent or faxed separately.
- Please include a list of courses you are currently taking and any NYU law school grades that are available.

D. Statement of Interest for each requested placement (there may be up to three such Statements)

- The Statement of Interest is a short essay explaining why you want to undertake the fellowship; why you are seeking a particular internship placement; and what you will bring to such a placement. Please do not simply repeat your CV. You may include:
  - Your reasons for applying for the Fellowship;
  - Significant academic and professional accomplishments;
  - Any experience that may be relevant to the work of an international or non-U.S. organization, including study or work abroad or work in the United States involving international issues;
  - Undergraduate or graduate courses of study in areas involving international law;
  - Foreign language abilities. For each language, please indicate, as precisely as you can, your level of competence in reading, writing, listening and speaking; and
  - Your goals for the Fellowship: what do you hope to gain from participation in the Fellowship Program?
- Each Statement of Interest should not exceed 500 words and should be on one (1) page.
- If you are applying for more than one placement, please include a separate Statement of Interest for each placement site. For example, if you are applying for three placements, you should submit three (3) Statements of Interest in each of the six (6) application packages. You are not required to rank your placement sites.

Six (6) application packages must be submitted by 12 noon, Friday, November 9 to the Center for Human Rights and Global Justice, D'Agostino Hall, 110 West Third Street, Second Floor, Room 204, New York, New York 10012.

Interviews and Selection

Approximately 40-45 students will be selected for interviews to be conducted at times to be determined but before November 22, 2007. The interviews will be conducted by Committees generally composed of NYU Faculty, visiting scholars, CHRJ and IILJ Staff members and former Student Fellows. For students who apply for more than one placement, this may mean you could be interviewed twice. Note that all fellowship awards are contingent on approval of the Student Fellow by the relevant internship placement site supervisors. The Institute for International Law and Justice will liaise with the International Law Commission and the Center for Human Rights and Global Justice will liaise with all other placement sites.
